SCUBA DIVING FOR KIDS! BEFORE YOU GO...

REGATTA PREVIEW: May to Dec | WINDS OF HOPE for Dominica

Make Every Outing a Special Occasion

The award-winning, crowd-pleasing 345 Conquest

BOSTON
WHALER

OVER 350,000 MEMBERS HAVE PLACED THEIR TRUST IN SKYMED

For a complete description of all member services please refer to our MSA at www.skymed.com

WHO NEEDS SKYMED?

Anyone who travels from their home as a vacationer, business traveler, timeshare owner, vacation club member or one of North America's growing number of vessel or recreational vehicle owners.

SKYMED IS THERE FOR YOU!

If you suffer a critical illness or injury while traveling, SkyMed TAKES YOU HOME to the comfort of your own doctors, home hospital and your loved ones.

If you have an HMO or PPO, SkyMed TAKES YOU HOME to your own coverage area averting a potential financial crisis. Very important to Canadians traveling out of province.

Bonded professional drivers, and captains return stranded vehicles and vessels. All this and more, without co pays, deductibles or claim forms.

THERE IS NO COMPARISON

SkyMed is not to be confused with look-a-like companies, who in the fine print, only agree to take you to the nearest medical facility. That is NOT taking you home. SkyMed never compares itself to other providers but many of them validate their services by saying 'we are just like SkyMed'.

SKYMED IS THE GOLD STANDARD

When it comes to the leader in unmatched medical air repatriation memberships, SkyMed is the one by which all others are measured. If you do not have a SkyMed membership, you do not have the industry Gold Standard.

READ ABOUT OUR SURVIVORS

skymed.com/survivor-stories

Gilbert Molnar states it simply, "We are eternally grateful to SkyMed, they not only saved my life, they saved us over $46,000."

Gilbert Molnar, Vancouver, Canada

ABOUT SKYMED NAUTICAL

The 'sailing' community navigates life differently from traditional roads and boundaries. Our water highways are not as easily defined as our land loving travelling counterparts. This nautical lifestyle has needed an emergency air evacuation membership program to meet our unique needs. SkyMed listened and created a customized membership plan that includes options to extend trip coverage beyond the traditional 90 days.

SkyMed and Global Emergency Travel Services (G-ETS) partner together to provide a wide range of emergency services as we sail out of the 32 country SkyMed Universe into International waters and ports of call. Mariners can literally take a year and sail around the world and still have G-ETS available to them when they are out of the SkyMed Universe.

This comprehensive bundle of services is only available through SkyMed International and our representatives serving the Nautical community.

We're no longer 'between the devil and the deep blue' ... our safety ship has come in!

USVI'S CARIBBEAN INFLATABLES NOW AUTHORIZED DEALER FOR SMARTKAT AND SMARTSUP

What do you get when you combine the social aspects of sailing with the thrill of kitesurfing? The SmartKat. Born in Austria over a decade ago, these mobile, inflatable performance catamarans offer the best of both worlds. There are two bodies: 16-foot and 19-foot long in size. Assorted configurations of sails and accessories create four different models: the Free Spirit, Adventure, Performance and High Performance. The last three of these can be altered into racing cats by changing the sails.

"I have had several groups of customers come into the office talking about the SmartKat and how exciting they are," says Janis French, president and chief executive officer of Caribbean Inflatable Boats & Liferrafts, Inc., the St. Thomas, U.S. Virgin Islands'-based authorized dealer. "Initially, I'm bringing in the Adventure and Performance, then following up with the Free Spirit and High Performance. I'm also bringing in the SmartSUP, an inflatable paddleboard."

The SmartSUP is 50 percent lighter in weight than the average paddleboard and 50 percent less in packing size. It includes an innovative bag/paddle pump; no additional pump is needed. The SmartSUP also comes with a multifunctional dry bag. www.caribbeaninflatable.com

ST. VINCENT'S BLUE LAGOON MARINA LOOKS FORWARD TO AGAIN WELCOME ARC+ SAILORS

Rum, sea salt, fresh fruit and more were among the gifts received by the boats that sailed the inaugural ARC+ Saint Vincent route. Fifteen cruising monohulls and multihulls continued on from Gran Canaria to Cap Verde to the Blue Lagoon Marina in St. Vincent during last fall's Atlantic Rally for Cruisers. Jeremy Wyatt, director of the UK-based World Cruising Club that runs the ARC and other rallies, dubbed the first-time edition of the ARC+ Saint Vincent route an 'amazing success' with plans for a repeat visit in 2019. Wyatt credited Blue Lagoon Marina and Hotel owner, Kelly Glass, for making new route possible.

"We have hosted the ARC+ and now the Viking Explorers rallies at the Blue Lagoon Marina," says Glass. "We will soon start deepening of the channel into The Canash Bay/Blue Lagoon and likely expansion of the docks upon planning approval, which we are very positive about."

Glass also owns interests in other marine- and tourism-related businesses in the Southern Caribbean. The Clarke's Court Boatyard and Marina, in Grenada, has increased its number and type of services available and expansion of the yard's footprint is underway. The sailor-friendly Bequia Plantation Hotel has its own dock and ice, pastries and other items for sale. The Liming Hotel, also on Bequia, has a dock that can accommodate 40-plus-foot catamarans on calm days, as well as speedboats and dinghies. ### TECNORIB BRANDS PIRELLI AND P NOW DISTRIBUTED BY DOMINICAN REPUBLIC'S IBI YACHTS

With a tag line like 'when the water is your road, but rubber's still your ride', there's definitely something to like about TecnoRib, the official licensee of inflatable boat brands Pirelli and P. Now, this Italian-headquartered company's high quality hard bottom inflatable ribs are available in the Caribbean. TecnoRib signed an agreement in March with IBI Yachts, which is based at Marina Casa de Campo, in La Romana, Dominican Republic.

"We have been thinking about a business expansion in the Caribbean and have decided to rely on the most popular and solid dealership in the area, which has made itself known for the exclusive distribution of brands such as Azimut and Benetti," said Gianni De Bonis, TecnoRib's managing director.

IBI Yachts, which is part of IB Nautica Group, will sell the Pirelli and P brand ribs in the Dominican Republic, Haiti and Puerto Rico, and offer after-sales service.

In the next few months, TecnoRib will present its new Pirelli J Line of 9.5- to 15-foot Jet Tenders at key international yacht shows. www.tecnorib.it, www.ibinautica.net

SUCCESSFUL SAILABILITY FUNDRAISER IN ANTIGUA

Sunday March 17 proved a record setter in Antigua. This is when the largest gathering of 'differently-abled' folks assembled to support the Sailability Antigua Sailing program. Nearly 350 people walked from the National Sailing Academy, which hosts Sailability – a program that offers recreational activity for the island's disabled people as well as in some cases the opportunity to sail independently – through English Harbour to Nelson's Dockyard. Included in the assembly were patron of both Sailability Antigua and the National Sailing Academy, Governor General Sir Rodney Williams and his wife.

"Our annual Sailability Super Sunday is the key fundraiser which pays to keep the program operating," says director, Bob Bailey. "Corporate sponsors and private citizens donated to raise a total of US $13,000. We are delighted with the response and want to thank everyone who contributed."

Sailability Super Sunday boasted a full-day schedule, which included the walk lead by a marching band and party back at the National Sailing Academy. Pan players, clowns, face painters and games kept children entertained throughout the afternoon, with a wrap-up performance by band 1761. Alongside this, seven teams of superyacht crew held a fun sailing regatta on the new dinghy dock built specifically for the Sailability program. One of the main supporters of this event, onboard now for the third year, was Budget Marine Antigua. ## ST. MARTIN KIDS TAKE PART IN BIRDSLEUTH CARIBBEAN PROGRAM

Birds are beautiful, melodious and, in the Caribbean, abundant over land and sea. This makes these feathered friends the perfect tool to teach kids about topics such as science and conservation. Enter BirdSleuth Caribbean, a non-profit international program that over the last five years has educated almost 50,000 people on 22 islands. On St. Martin, over 1,000 youth have participated in BirdSleuth Caribbean thanks to teacher trainings and student activities, like Bird Bingo and a Habitat Scavenger Hunt, led by volunteers with organizations such as the Les Fruits de Mer Association. These events are free to classes and groups visiting Amuseum Naturalis, a nature, history and cultural museum created by Les Fruits de Mer and located at The Old House in the French Quarter.

"This program is really special because it was adapted specifically for the Caribbean," says Les Fruits de Mer co-founder, Mark Yokoyama. "It features local birds and local habitats so it really helps kids connect to the program. It also has lots of activities that get kids out interacting with nature, which is wonderful to see." # MAY – JUNE 2019 EVENTS

BY CAROL M. BAREUTHER

MAY 8: ANTIGUA BERMUDA RACE. A new record may be on the horizon in the third edition of this 935 nautical mile race north from Antigua to Bermuda. Scallywag, the 100-foot canting keel super-maxi owned by Hong Kong executive Lee Seng Huang and skippered by Australia's Dave Witt, could break the record (2 days, 18 hours, 32 minutes and 48 seconds) set by the Volvo 70 Warrior last year. Even better, this regatta is evolving into a Caribbean staple. "We were encouraged that without the draw of the America's Cup, we had 14 entries last year," says Les Crane. "Some competitors enjoy that this is almost 1000 miles of true offshore racing in beautiful weather and warm seas, the longest race in the Western Atlantic. Others recognize the safety aspect of being part of an organized, tracked race in the middle of the Atlantic. We expect 20 or more entrants including 4 double handers. Bermuda is a beautiful destination and a great stop off in advance of the Newport or Solent season." The Antigua Bermuda Race is part of the Atlantic Ocean Race Series and is equally weighted with the RORC Caribbean 600, Rolex Fastnet Race and Rolex Middle Sea Race. MAY 26: 2019 LEVERICK BAY POKER RUN. More than 250 boats and over 2,000 visitors from the British Virgin Islands, U.S. Virgin Islands, Puerto Rico and World are expected to take part in the 18th annual Leverick Bay Poker Run. The event begins at Leverick Bay, in North Shore, Virgin Gorda, BVI and follows a predetermined route to several neighboring islands, where each contestant draws one playing card per stop. Upon returning to Leverick Bay Hotel & Marina for the prize-giving celebration, the participants with the best poker hands win! The Run is not a race, but instead a celebration of the

MAY 27: FOXY'S WOODEN & CLASSIC YACHT REGATTA.

Wooden boats and wannabes are invited to the British Virgin Island of Jost Van Dyke for a weekend of sailing, music and partying. "Foxy wanted to keep this event going, but there are fewer wooden boats, and the ones that are left are in pretty bad shape," says Thomas Warner, general manager of event host, Foxy's Tamarind Bar in Great Harbour. "The idea of 'Wooden Boat for a Day' came up. Any vessel of any vintage and construction can become an 'Honorary Wooden Boat' for the weekend by virtue of a small donation to the Sloop Foundation and The Jost van Dyke Preservation Society. Both organizations are currently working on repairing or restoring their wooden boats to keep this heritage alive." Festivities kick-off on May 25 with a BBQ and a live band. Hangover registration starts May 26 at 9 a.m., the racing begins at 10 a.m. and the day finishes with a Lobster and Seafood Buffet with music by Barefoot Davis and his band. May 27th features the singlehanded race with prizes awarded during happy hour. foxysbvi.com

JUNE 7: NAUTICAL PARADE – 500TH ANNIVERSARY OF HAVANA, CUBA.

All boats are welcome to take part in this marine event, which is one of several hosted by the Hemingway International Yacht Club (HIYC) to commemorate the half-millennia anniversary of the founding of Cuba's capital city. "The Nautical Parade starts near the mouth of the Almendares River, which crosses the Cuban capital. Then, it continues along the malecon (the city's famous seaside esplanade), into the Havana Bay, and then out to sea. Navigation along the Havana Malecon offers a colorful nautical show to the city's residents and people in transit through the capitol," says Commodore Jose M Diaz Escrich, who invites participating yachts to dock at HIYC. Other nautical event's in the city's 500th anniversary celebration include a Kite Surfing Festival on July 6, Shore Fishing Tournament from the Malecon on August 31, and another Nautical Parade on November 15. # REFIT OR BRAIN FADE?

SAILING HUMOR BY CAP'N FATTY GOODLANDER

The problem with being a delusional marine journalist is that, sooner or later, you begin to believe your own swill. Let's face it, you don't get paid for writing the truth about boring people. There's a professional tendency to 'over saturate' both the photographs and the facts. Once you begin to consciously inflate the person you are interviewing, it sort of inadvertently spills over onto your own mirror. Here's the truth: I'm a 40-year-old, muscular, well-hung, intelligent sailor with a headful of thick hair in my own mind—why not allow a little of that fantasy to leak out on the page?

A secondary problem is that my income is erratic.

Occasionally I discover a new writing market with particularly dumb editors but for the most part all the yachtie-snotty publications pay me what I'm worth, which isn't much.

So there I was in New Zealand—bald, dumb, semi-senile, and dead-broke—attempting to please my ancient trophy wife, whose sad life afloat I've objectively ruined. (The only way our marriage makes sense is if reincarnation is true and she's atoning for a sin in a previous life.)

All that is the downside. The upside is that there are many shipyard dumpsters in Whangarei, New Zealand, and I'm the Jacques Cousteau of diving 'em. Yeah, I'm one of those sicko dudes who wander around the international shipyards finding corroded remnants of discarded zincs while screaming, "... good as new!"

In addition, I'm not above begging. I mean, why not hang around traffic jams outside yacht clubs with a sign around my neck that reads, "...will work for unopened tubes of 5200!"

...nor am I against strong-arm crime—wouldn't any cruising sailor kill for a gallon of West Epoxy with the appropriate resin pumps?

...why, if it wasn't for that dried up crud at the bottom of tossed-away bottom-paint cans, I wouldn't have any antifouling at all.

So what if my antifouling is always the color of dark green puke—the fish don't care.

Worse, when I say 'work on stuff' I really mean destroy it with sophisticated tools. Yesterday was a perfect example: I attempted to replace the two dollar lip seal in my Jabsco 50440-1401 raw water pump—and bent the thousand dollar bronze pump body like a pretzel. Oophs! (I hung my head in shame as my wife screamed at the skipper of the ketch Rewa, "Never lend him a wheel-puller again, Dave! Every marine mechanical device he works on ends up as twisted as his morals!")

But my wife's immediate problem was obvious—our galley top with its sinks and faucets and stuff had rotted and fallen into the bilge amid a mist of damp, punky plywood. "So do something," she yelled. "Our shipboard roaches have no home!"

That's the problem with boats—hang around long enough and you end up on your knees on all levels.

Now it wasn't that difficult to 'liberate' enough unguarded wood to rebuild the galley—but while doing so I broke a weak aluminum Freon tube to our Danfoss BD50 compressor and put a 2x4 through the glass face of our rusty propane cooker.

Thus, by the time I got our sinks working—our Force Ten stove was scrap metal and our refrigeration was kaput.

Did I mention the head backed up? And the smoke got out of our VHF? And one of our steering cables stranded? And I discovered our 10-millimeter galvy chain hasn't seen any galvy in years and is now, in spots, about two millimeters of rust-only chain?

Or that our windlass motor's brushes are so bad that it would have difficulty picking up our Rocna anchor even if it was made out of balsa?

Ah, the yachting life.

...which reminds me of our book CREATIVE ANCHORING.

So there I was in New Zealand—bald, dumb, semi-senile, and dead-broke—attempting to please my ancient trophy wife, whose sad life afloat I've objectively ruined.

My wife came to me and asked to tell her everything I know about anchoring. "More scope," I said.

"Only two words?" she asked.

"Yeah," I said.

"Could you stretch that out into, say, four hundred pages of prose?"

"Sure," I replied, "if there's money in it."

How do we get off on these tangents? Weren't we talking about my amazing ship's husbandry skills?

Did you know that, even if you water ten year old 12-volt lead-acid batteries, they aren't really 'full of juice' no matter how much they appear to be?

...nothing makes sense in the marine sphere—like why they call it pleasure boating. How sick is that?

I mean, even a sailing masochist might balk at referring to yachting as recreational boating—not unless 'suffering afloat' could be considered an aquatic hobby.

Of course, we can't currently afford a berth in New Zealand. Instead we're up a dreary river in a mud berth.

A few days ago we were rowing ashore with our tree branches (let's face it, oars are too expensive) and a lady on the river-bank shouted, "Are you from the shipwreck?"

My wife cringed.

I sat proudly and said haughtily, "Ship, yes. Wreck, yes. But shipwreck, no. I intend this water-borne lifestyle—as hard as that is to believe."

People think I'm cheap—HA! I'm just worried about global warming and want to leave a small carbon footprint. Thus I chop the chafe out of my jib sheets and retie them back together with double carrick knots.

Other money saving tips—using electrical ties to hold your lifelines together.

Aren't you happy I'm a world-renown 'marine expert' who is willing to share fruit from his tree of knowledge?

Of course, there's considerably more strain on your standing rigging—thus I recommend hose clamps on the one-by-nine-teen if you plan on going offshore.

Better safe than sorry, right?

Here's an additional 'bonus' hint: bobstays carry the most load of any piece of standing rigging—thus both hose clamps AND duct tape might be required on heavy displacement craft.

So that's what I'm doing. I just sit around my boat and attempt to glue back on all the ca-ca stuff that falls off her. It isn't easy. Occasionally one of my repairs sort-of works and I sort-of write it down—then wait for the pennies to pour in.

Yeah, tough job but somebody has to do it. (end)

SAILING WITH CHARLIE: ORIGINS AND ORIGINALS

SAILING HUMOR BY JULIAN PUTLEY
GRAPHICS BY ANOUK SYLVESTRE

Charlie often wonders about the origin of the species, especially in the context of sailing and the sea. 'It is said that we came from the sea, beginning as unicells; our sperm tastes of the sea, our tears are of salt water. As embryos we resemble fish, and the mammals of the sea are our undeveloped cousins... Only at sea may the complete mixture of all the grand elements best be sensed and comprehended.' (Song of the Sirens, Ernest K Gann)

It is fascinating to witness the draw of the sea on so many people. Even in high latitudes on holidays thousands migrate to the sea and more and more folks are buying or renting boats to get out on the water. Without getting into religion the argument for evolution far exceeds that of creationism just by observation and common sense; just as people are drawn back to their place of birth or childhood, similarly it seems that they are drawn to the sea from whence they came, like some primeval magnet.

I would not be the first to disbelieve in the first giant cruise ship, Noah's Ark, but there is palpable evidence that such a ship existed. Apparently, a divine message was received by Noah of an impending storm of cataclysmic proportions. In the message he was instructed to build the Ark to rescue man and the animals during a devastating flood. Time and Place: The Middle East some 2,300 years BC. Such a flood though would have been unlikely to engulf the whole world, but at that time they didn't know there was a whole world out there. So, when you see artists' impressions and pictures of the event penguins and polar bears are conspicuously absent. Once a seaman always a seaman. Joshua Slocum, the first man to singlehandedly sail around the world began his sailing career on fishing vessels and then clipper ships. According to his story he first served as ship's cook but his 'duff' was not up to standard so he was transferred to deck hand. After years as a mate and then captain of clipper ships, with untold fantastic adventures, he finally retired.

Slocum then restored a small 37' gaff-rigged cutter, Spray, and became world famous after writing his best-selling story, Sailing Alone Around the World. His little vessel once sailed two thousand miles with no-one at the helm and he navigated successfully with a sextant and 'an old tin clock.'

On his return and as an invited guest he eulogized Mark Twain at his funeral and was befriended by President Roosevelt. Slocum again met with President Roosevelt in May 1907, this time at the White House in Washington. Supposedly, Roosevelt said to him, "Captain, our adventures have been a little different." Slocum answered, "That is true, Mr. President, but I see you got here first."

Toward the end of his life he would sail the east coast and winter in the Caribbean. At the age of 65 years he sailed into Fiddler's Green.

Another original was the Kon Tiki, a raft constructed of balsa logs in 1947; it sailed for 101 days across the Pacific from Peru to Raroia to prove that Polynesian islanders could have originated in South America – a supposition later presumed unlikely. Norwegian Thor Heyerdahl, expedition leader, became famous with a book, documentary and movie.

Nowadays large, comfortable plastic catamarans et al are sailing the world's oceans like never before. However, now they are not considered adventurers but rather escapees. As such they become sources of revenue for the islanders, who have now realized that their valuable resources are peace, quiet and natural beauty... and that is as it should be.

TIPS FOR CRUISING WITH PETS IN THE CARIBBEAN: PART TWO

PETS AT SEA BY JOAN CONOVER

IMAGES COURTESY OF JOAN CONOVER

For the past several cruising seasons, we have been taking our pets, three little Havanese dogs, with us to the Northern Caribbean and Windward/Lee-wards. Pets all have special rules and requirements or can even be denied entry. Like cruisers, pets come in all sizes and types!

Plan head for as getting your pets into and out of each individual country can be its own special challenge.

IMPORT AND EXIT RULES

Each country you visit requires an import and exit/export documentation with timely health certificates. Our cruising plans for pets includes a simple timeline, May (heartworm tests and general checkup/dental/vaccines if needed), July/August titer tests, end of October USDA Export Certification for a 1 November cruise to the tropics.

While import/export requirement for pets needs careful attention to health records and documentation, it's a similar process to crew entry and exit and is usually associated with the customs procedure. It's not complicated IF you plan ahead and follow the import rules. If you are not willing to comply, you risk loss of your pet, quarantine at a government facility( at your costs) and possible fines and more.

This is serious, these countries are trying to prevent spread of disease – into and out of their borders, they are not the bad guys! Each country in the Caribbean can have separate and special health challenges from vaccinations, feral animals and the increased disease issues found in the tropics. Be sure to check each foreign countries regulations on their websites before you leave your home-base.

For example, the Bahamas require an entry permit, good for one year, for one animal, and since they only take money orders, this is something to do prior to leaving on your travels. We send a copy of all our health records, with the import form, and money order to Bahamas before we leave the USA; the entry permits are emailed back to us. Expect the process to take several weeks, do it in the summer! Then we just have to present the emailed papers with the permit and a current health certificate to customs on arrival.

Exit requires a visit to a private vet, and several days for processing; we used a vet in the Abacos. Bahamas have a real challenge as several years ago, a parvo outbreak occurred and is now active in several of the island groups—they are serious about vaccines and exit permits. One vessel was not aware of this exit requirement, but if you try to entry another country with our pet, and a customs agent checks, you could be in real trouble. So think ahead, always!

Thank goodness for the internet and email contact with the various government veterinarians, as this is the first avenue for getting your pets into and out of the various island groups that make up the Tropics. Check for each countries site on the internet, rules do change. You will be both importing your pet, and then, just like the crew and boat, exporting them on leaving. Each entry and export provides you the paperwork necessary to enter the next island on your cruising itinerary.

For some islands(not rabies free ones such as the British Virgin Islands, Bahamas,and Bermuda), if you contact prior to entry, and do not plan to take your pets off the vessel or touch land with them, you can quarantine them on the vessel and do not have to do import and export paperwork. But check with the government veterinarian first, get email permission. Make sure you have sent email a copy of your documentation to cover any last minute changes. This has worked well in the BVI, USVI, Sint Maartin, Guadalupe, Dominica, Puerto Rico (they ask for your USDA certificate number during customs check in), and Cuba. Good documentation makes all the difference.

WHAT TO DO BEFORE STARTING OUT?

For our pets, as part of the pre-cruise build up activities, we add the pets health certificate needs. This includes the immunizations necessary for the tropics, and a special rabies titer test ($180 dollars up and good for a calendar year) to allow entry into the more restrictive countries.

With the USDA Certification paperwork for each dog, copies of the rabies shot record, and in our case, Pet Passports with photo and microchip, we do not have issues entering foreign countries; we follow the most stringent rules (British Virgin Islands). It's a good idea to make several copies of your paperwork and like our human passports, we put a copy in our ditch bag.

Plus, we make sure none of our pets needs a vaccination while in the tropics, because unless you are in the northern Caribbean, you will have issues getting your pet immunized. Since we do these vaccines and titers for our dogs anyway as a protective program, it just means planning ahead.

USA Resident Pets/Dogs. For the countries which have rabies, and you are going to visit islands such as the British Virgin Islands which are rabies free, pets need special blood testing for rabies vaccine levels. In the USA, FAVN Rabies titers take about 6 weeks for turn around from veterinarian to University of Kansas laboratory and return. While I will not cover what this involves, realize time is the real issue, and the rabies test needs to be done yearly .

With a titer, and the correct vaccinations for each animal (Distemper/Parvo, Lyme/Lepto, Rabies, etc), flea and heartworm/worm treatments, its possible to obtain from your veterinarian, the USDA Form for submission for export certification. It's a few day turn around. # 10 TOP CARIBBEAN FORTS TO EXPLORE

BY CAROL M. BAREUTHER

CITADELLE LA FERRIERE KEY IMAGE COURTESY MINISTRY OF TOURISM (HAITI)

There are over four hundred years of fort history in the Caribbean. These centuries-old bastions for and against flag planting and foreign plunderers are sites today of great historical significance. Here's a sampling of 10 top forts to see.

1. CITADELLE LAFERRIERE, HAITI. This colossal stone-and-mortar-built fortress, rising 130-foot higher than the

3,000-foot elevation Bonnet a L'Eveque mountain on which it was built in the early 1800's, looks a perfect setting for a medieval Hollywood movie. That's not likely given how hard it is to get here. The final quarter of the 7-mile trail from the village of Milot requires horsepower of a four-legged kind. The reward is a spectacular view in the distance of the city of Cap-Haitien and Atlantic Ocean beyond. Local guides available. Entrance fee: $5. www.citadellelafferriere.com

SAN JUAN EL MORRO

2. EL MORRO, PUERTO RICO. It's hard to miss this impressive 16th century citadel. Located on the northwest corner of Old San Juan and formally named Castillo San Felipe del Morro, this fort was built to protect San Juan Bay from privateers like Sir Francis Drake, which it and the men inside did so successfully in 1595. Guided tours of this World Heritage Site fortification, which rises 140-feet above the sea with 18-foot-thick walls, are held daily and fun for kids and adults alike. Entrance fee: $7 for adults. www.nps.gov/saju/index.htm

COURTESY USVI DEPARTMENT OF TOURISM -
FORT CHRISTIAN, ST. THOMAS

3. FORT CHRISTIAN, ST. THOMAS, US VIRGIN ISLANDS.

This red-painted imposing structure built by the Danes in the late 1600's and located across from the Legislature Building in Charlotte Amalie has been a focal point of the harbor for over 300 years. After over a decade of restoration, slowed by findings such as human remains, the fort finally opened for tours during the territory's centennial of U.S. ownership in 2017. Entrance fee: $10. www.visitusvi.com

COURTESY USVI DEPARTMENT OF TOURISM

4. FORT CHRISTIANSVAERN, ST. CROIX, US VIRGIN ISLANDS. A gorgeous green grass lawn sits in contrast to this yellow-painted ballast brick-built fort that defends Christiansted harbor. Inside once held the former Danish colony's jail, which at one time called Alexander Hamilton's mother an inmate. A teenage girl at the time, the refusal to live with her first husband proved her crime. The wider U.S. National Park Service run historic complex on which the fort sits also includes 18th and 19th century church as well as customs, scale and government houses. Admission: US $7. Tours available. www.nps.gov/chri/index.htm

STATIA FORT ORANJE

5. FORT ORANJE, ST. EUSTATIUS. Built on a rock face of the island's capitol city of Oranjestad, the beautiful bastions and comely courtyards make this one of the most picturesque forts in the Caribbean. Yet, this 1629-built, fully-restored military strong-hold boasts a bigger claim to fame. That is, on November 16, 1776, Fort Oranje was the first to formally recognize via friendly fire a flag few had seen before: that of the newly independent United States. A plaque at the fort today commemorates this historic world headline. www.statia-tourism.com

BRIMSTONE IN ST. KITTS

6. BRIMSTONE HILL FORTRESS, ST. KITTS.

A plaque unveiled by Britain's Queen Elizabeth II in 1985 declared this 1790-built fort and its surroundings as a national Park. Today, the chief points of interest are the Fort George Museum, Western and Eastern Places of Arms, magazine bastion and ruins of several divisions of army quarters. Atop the fort, among the many cannons, is a view that spans from the island's mountains and fields to neighboring Caribbean islands like Saba, St. Eustatius and Nevis. Guided and self-guided audio tours available. Admission: US $10. www.brimstonehillfortress.org

SIMPLY ANTIGUA BARBUDA FOR THE ANTIGUA AND BARBUDA TOURISM AUTHORITY

7. FORT JAMES, ANTIGUA.

Stationed at the entrance of St. John's Harbour, this fort started construction in 1706 in anticipation of a French invasion. Several cannons still remain guarding the former glory of what today is ruins of the fort and it adjacent colonial building. Still, just walking around the grounds and a strong imagination can really make the place come to life. The fort overlooks pristine Fort James Beach. No admission. No guided tours.

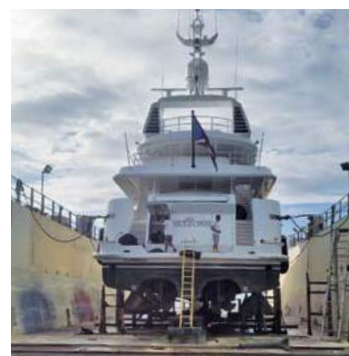

FORT SAINT LOUIS PHOTOGRAPHE JA. COOPMANN

8. FORT SAINT LOUIS, MARTINIQUE.

A stunning 360-degree view of the city of Fort-de-France and the Caribbean Sea beyond is visible from this 17th century fort. It's not possible to walk in and wander on your own. Since the 9/11 attacks in New York, the fort has been re-activated as a French naval base. Instead, buy tickets across the street and a guide leads a personal tour. Ramparts, an old magazine room, canons and moats are visible parts of the fort's history. Tours given hourly. Tickets: € 8 Euros or $9 USD. Children age 6 or older. # KIDS & SCUBA DIVING – WHAT TO KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

BY CAROL M. BAREUTHER

Swimming, snorkeling, surfing and even sailing and sportfishing. These are just a few of the watersports enjoyed by kids and adults alike in the Caribbean. More often, add scuba diving to this list especially for pre-teens and teens. The Caribbean is a perfect place for these two age groups to learn to dive due to year-round warm weather, protected bay areas that are reassuring to beginner and new divers, and a plethora of coral reefs and marina life to explore even at shallow depths. That said, the ticket to success for parents is knowing when their child is ready to learn and choosing the appropriate type of instruction. After that, a lifetime awaits of exploring the underwater world.

WHEN ARE KIDS READY TO SCUBA DIVE?

Kids as young as 8 years old can get a taste of scuba diving. For example, several Caribbean dive centers will offer the PADI (Professional Association of Diving Instructors) Bubblemaker and Seal Team and Master Seal Team courses.

"The Bubblemaker course is a half day, restricted to confined water like a pool no deeper than 6 feet and is accompanied by a scuba instructor. Kids learn about diving theory, scuba equipment and experience diving in this environment," explains Christine Finney, marine biologist and manager at Eco Dive, located at the Coyaba Beach Resort and Port Louis Marina, in St. George's, Grenada. "The Seal Team courses run 1 to 5 days and similar to the Bubblemaker, but they can go to 12 feet. Special training, called aqua missions, further the learning with activities like marine life identification and conservation, dive navigation and underwater photography."

The minimum age to actually learn to scuba dive is 10 years old in most areas, according to PADI. Those age 13 and younger need an adult's permission to register for a dive training class, such as those offered by PADI and similar organizations. From the ages of 10 to 14, divers can earn the PADI Junior Open Water Diver certification. At age 15, they can upgrade to the Open Water Diver Certification. The difference is that the Junior certification has a depth restriction of 40-feet and Open Water goes to 60-feet.

Beyond age, students need to be able to swim, advises Andrea Syrett, general manager at Dive BVI, which has locations on Scrub Island and at the Virgin Gorda Yacht Harbour and staff cross-trained in PADI, NAUI (National Association of Underwater Instructor) and SSI (Scuba Schools International) certifications. "This is tested at the beginning of the course by having the student swim and then do a 10-minute float, both in water too deep in which to stand."

Kids are usually more comfortable in the water than adults, however, a certain maturity level and attention span are definitely needed to learn to dive, says Kim Frye, who owns and runs The Scuba Shop in Simpson Bay, St. Maarten, with her father, Peter Frye. "Kids do exactly the same Open Water Course as an adult. So, there is quite a bit of theory with big words and math involved, and a learning session of dive skills where the student really needs to be able to pay attention and be involved. Most importantly, the young person has to want to learn, not be there because the parent thinks it is a good idea."

SEVERAL COURSES TO CHOOSE FROM

One way for a parent to test the waters with their child is during a fun activity. For example, every year The Scuba Shop hosts an Underwater Easter Egg Hunt on Easter Monday. Over 1000 painted rocks are laid in water up to 30-foot deep. Participants, ranging in age from toddlers to grandparent's free dive with mask, snorkel or goggles to find these submerged gems. A scuba division was also recently added. Last year, over 200 residents and visitors alike participated.

For teens, a summer camp experience that includes scuba diving instruction may be a keen introduction. Sail Caribbean, through its sister company Sail Caribbean Divers, with three locations in the BVI, offers multi-day and multi-week programs where teens learn to sail, live on boats, dive and more, explains Emily Graf, one of Sail Caribbean Diver's PADI Scuba Instructors. "The teens really love this."

Or, book a one-day discover scuba diving course. This enables young people to get a taste of the experience and see if it's something they'd like without parents investing a lot of time and money upfront, suggests Paul Roos, owner/operator of Jolly Dive, in Jolly Harbour Antigua. "This course teaches the basics of what happens to your body due to the increased pressure as you go underwater, basic skills like mask clearing and equalizing one's ears in a pool setting and getting comfortable with the use of scuba equipment. This is not a certification course, just an experience course."

There is a two-day course, Scuba Diver certification, Roos adds. This is only half the full Open Water Diver certification course. It does provide a C-card (certification card), but depth of dives are restricted. Later, however, it's possible to do the second half and become fully open water certified.

GO SCUBA DIVING!

Of course, the best part of kids learning how to scuba dive is to actually go diving. The Caribbean offers several spectacular spots. In Barbados, it's Carlisle Bay, says Andre Miller, marine biologist and PADI MSDT and Freediver Instructor at Barbados Blue Water Sports, at the Hilton Hotel in Needham's Point. "With six sunken ship wrecks to explore, Carlisle Bay is definitely a fun dive for kids and families!"

CARIBBEAN REGATTA PREVIEW: MAY TO DECEMBER 2019

BY CAROL M. BAREUTHER

Yacht racing fun doesn't end when the spring regatta season is done. The Caribbean boasts perfect sailing conditions year-round. In fact, here's a sampling of what's coming up and where you can get on the start line the second half of the year:

MAY 15–19: ANR TOBAGO SAILING REGATTA. Three days, six races, an evening awards ceremony followed by a laid-back day makes this event special. Classes include racing, cruising and more. www.anrsailing.com

MAY 18–19: BVI DINGHY CHAMPIONSHIPS. The RS Feva (double-handed 12-foot long sailing dinghy) is a new class for this annual event hosted by the Royal BVI Yacht Club (RBVIYC) out of Nanny Cay Marina on Tortola. Other classes include Optimists, both Green and Championship, and Laser 4.7, Radial and Standard. "Dinghy Champs is our opportunity to welcome young sailors from neighboring islands and for our own sailors to take the challenge for national honors," says Tamsin Rand, club manager. www.royalbviyc.org

JUNE 10–16: INTERNATIONAL OPTIMIST REGATTA.

Over 100 sailors from the Caribbean, U.S. and Europe are expected to attend this St. Thomas Yacht Club-hosted event's three-day clinic, one-day of team racing and three-day regatta, with both Green and Championship fleets. "Some of the best sailors in the sport will participate, which makes our event a great warm-up for the Worlds in Antigua in July," says regatta director, Holly Jenkins. JULY 6-16: 2019 OPTIMIST WORLD CHAMPIONSHIPS. Sailors representing 59 countries were registered as of March, and if this number hits 63, this event will break the Guinness World record for the most countries competing at a single class regatta. "We knew it would be challenging to organize, but we also knew we could do it and that it would be important for Antigua," says regatta director, Paola Vittoria. "After all, the Antigua Yacht Club is already home to some of the most prestigious sailing events and we have a great venue in Nelson's Dockyard." JULY 7: MOTT MEMORIAL HOBIE CAT CHALLENGE. This multihull event hosted by Grenada's Petite Calivigny Yacht Club (PCYC) is named for Mott Green (David Friedman), who founded the Grenada Chocolate Factory and passed away 2013. "Mott's mother donated his Hobie Cat to us and thus the Mott Memorial race," says commodore, John Whitsett. Single and double handers, locals and visitors, youth and adults, men and women are all invited to race or spectate. www.pcycgrenada.com

AUGUST 2-5: CARRIACOU REGATTA FESTIVAL. This four-day event offers challenging courses for a multitude of boat sizes and special events on land like the Donkey Race and Greasy Pole Competition, which accent on local culture and heritage. New is the Carriacou Sloop Class, a race honoring Carriacou's boatbuilding heritage. Classes include Large and Small Deck Sloops, Traditional and Modified, Long Open and Small Open boats, Lasers and Optimists. carriacouregattafestival.com

AUGUST 3-4: SUMMERFEST REGATTA. Hosted by the Sailing Academy of Club Náutico de San Juan, in Puerto Rico, this event features Optimists, Lasers, Sunfish and 420s.

"It's a great platform to prepare for the 2019 Laser 4.7 Youth World Championship in Kingston, Canada, later in August," says Academy assistant director, Marco Teixidor. The similar Winter Challenge Regatta is set for December 21-22. www.academiadevela.com

AUGUST 17-18: ARUBA INTERNATIONAL REGATTA.

Twelve to 15 yachts will compete in racing, cruising and open classes. "We have added a new course for the yachts that will be a bigger challenge for downwind tactics," says organizer, Eric Mijts. There are also classes for sunfish, beach cats and optimist dinghies. The regatta focuses on sustainability and has achieved gold status from Sailors for the Sea. This year's theme is coral restoration. Aruba-regatta.com

OCTOBER 9-12: BONAIRE REGATTA. Open, Sunfish, Optimist, Windsurf, Kitesurfing, Microboats and more are featured at this 52nd annual event, held in Kralendijk. "Our many sailing categories makes us unique," says organizer, Hennyson Thielman, who adds that there will be nightly entertainment, a Kid's Corner, Game Zone, Food Festival and Shopping area. www.regattabonaire.com

NOVEMBER 2-3: FOXY'S CAT FIGHT. This Halloween weekend 'largest multihull regatta in the Caribbean' kicks off the BVI sailing tourism season. "The Masquerade Ball on Saturday brings out the fun side of everyone, as they party the night away, dressed up in their favorite costumes. The evening culminates with an exciting 'crowd vote' for the most Creative, Sexiest, etc. costumes," says WEYC secretary, Kelly Bennett. www.facebook.com/groups/weycbvi/

NOVEMBER 16: NANNY CAY ROUND TORTOLA RACE. Competitors enjoy a unique opportunity to enjoy the beauty of the 21-square-mile island of Tortola from a different angle. If the conditions are right, the potential for record breaking is strong. This year, says the RBVIYC's Rand, "we are looking forward to seeing kiteboards compete and a growing fleet of trimarans with potential to challenge for the outright records." Jolly Harbour Yacht Club Annual Regatta

NOVEMBER 23 (START): RORC TRANSATLANTIC RACE.

This is a great feeder race for yachts to cross the Atlantic in time for the Caribbean regatta season. Classes include IRC, Superyacht (100-foot LOA and larger), Classic Yachts, Class40 and Multihulls-MOCRA (Multihull Offshore Cruising and Racing Association). Hosts in both Lanzarote (Canary Islands) for the start and Grenada (Camper & Nicholson's Port Louis Marina) for the finish ensure that every boat and crew are well looked after and really make the whole process an easy enjoyable one, according to RORC Race Team organizers. Rorctransatlantic.rorc.org

NOVEMBER 23-24: JOLLY HARBOUR YACHT CLUB ANNUAL REGATTA.

Racing, racer/cruiser and cruiser classes feature in this annual event where excellent course configurations and minimal wait times between races keep everyone focused and happy. "We will be getting some sponsorship, so hope to have a larger fleet racing," says commodore Grahame Williams. www.jhycantigua.com

NOVEMBER 30-DECEMBER 2: MANGO BOWL REGATTA.

The great conditions of Rodney Bay make this an exciting regatta to sail. "We are hoping for 30 to 40 boats, including 8 to 10 in the J24/Surprise/Racing class and 6 Cruising Class races over the two days," says director, Lily Bergasse. Racing finishes at Noon on the second day, with a live band and BBQ prize-giving. Winners receive, you guessed it, beautifully hand-painted mango bowls. # QUALITY ASSURANCE FOR A NEW PRODUCTION YACHT

BY CAPT. JEFF WERNER

ALL IMAGES ARE LABELED FOR REUSE BY WIKIMEDIA COMMONS.

The path to build a new yacht from boat show to sea trial usually takes many twists and turns. Builders of production boats have an assembly line style of manufacturing that values speed of the new build to maximize profits. Building new production motoryachts 80-foot LOA and above follows the same pattern: reusable molds for fiberglass hulls and superstructures, a standard but limited menu of interior design and equipment options, and a precise estimate of “man-hours” needed to complete the yacht at a profit.

An experienced, credentialed marine surveyor is a must. Their skilled eyes will identify major issues and minor defects during the in-build stages and while inspecting the new yacht at the dock and during sea trials.

Imagine building a new house from a cookie cutter home builder. First, paying the general contractor a down payment, and then progress payments along the way, but never seeing the house until it is finished prior to closing. That's the model that many production yacht builders prefer to follow.

However, the new yacht owner whose vision of their completed boat mirrors what they saw as they walked through the model yacht at the boat show, has high expectations of quality to match the multiple millions of dollars they have spent. Sometimes the expediency of production overrides the quality of the finished product.

Using a team approach for yacht building, with the owner represented by a project manager, captain and marine surveyor, working closely with the manufacturer keeps lines of communication open throughout the building process to help minimize surprises during the owner's acceptance after commissioning and sea trials.

An experienced, credentialed marine surveyor is a must. Their skilled eyes will identify major issues and minor defects during the in-build stages and while inspecting the new yacht at the dock and during sea trials. Prior to closing on the new yacht, the surveyor works with an acceptance checklist in hand and methodically reviews build quality and conducts tests.

This detailed checklist covers hull and deck structure, deck outfitting, machinery, electrical, electronics, plumbing, interior outfitting and safety, with about a hundred items falling into these broad categories. Hull to deck joining, through hull fittings, cleat installation, engine vibration, shore power operation, autopilot functions, fresh water distribution, and anchor windlass freefall ability are some of the many items to be reviewed. Acceptance is a simple "yes" or "no". If not accepted, the surveyor will note the problem and possibly recommend a remedy.

Examples of minor defects include cosmetic problems, such as dull gelcoat or mismatched gelcoat color. Ill-fitting doors that bind when closing, hatches with a small leak and warped floor boards opening to bilges under the cabin sole are quite common. Major issues either compromise the integrity or safe operation of the vessel. For example, an electrical equipment space without sufficient ventilation to allow converters, inverters and lithium ion batteries to operate coolly or an incorrectly installed hydrostatic release mechanism for a life raft.

The yacht builder, as part of the production process, assumes there will be a swift acceptance process, closing and handover to the owner. A long list of items that do not meet the surveyor's acceptance criteria will cause a call back of tradespeople who are probably already working on building the next hull. Needless to say, this wreaks havoc in the company's schedule for the next boat coming down the ways.

At this point, the owner and the owner's team may need to negotiate and prioritize the remaining items to be accepted, as they may receive push back from the builder due to time, labor availability and cost. This can be a very frustrating period for both the builder and the owner. What has been an amicable working relationship to this point, can get frayed over a few key sticking points with difficult to reconcile points of view. Therefore, a well-crafted contract by the owner's attorney with an agreed upon procedure for such situations, is vital at the start of the project. Ideally, the marine surveyor should be the final arbiter of all technical issues.

In the end, both parties will come to agreement, and the manufacturer will have delivered a well-built yacht that will meet cruising criteria of the owner. The savvy yacht builder knows that their last happy client is their best advertising for future customers. And a satisfied owner is usually very willing to have their new yacht on display at an upcoming boat show to allow the manufacturer to start a new production cycle all over again.

WINDS OF HOPE

Our paper chart of the Windward Islands is well worn near the northwest corner of Dominica. Decades of penciled course marks lead in and out of Prince Rupert Bay, a favorite stop on our north/south track. The Caribbean's 'Nature Island,' sandwiched between the jumbo French ones, is a convenient place to overnight and an even better port for an entertaining visit.

In January, sixteen months after a category 5 storm hit the island, we tacked into the broad bay with binoculars out, scanning the hills where giant hardwoods once stood. Hurricane Maria's claws left zigzagged scars on the mountainous slopes that serve as backdrop to the tiny town of Portsmouth, but already, vines are filling in the bald spots and trees that survived are thriving from the massive trim and rain. Buildings, sporting new tin roofs, were the first sign of recovery we wanted to see.

A high-speed PAYS boat approached, the driver announcing, "Welcome to Dominica!" He briefed us on services offered, smiled, waved, then sped away. Portsmouth Association of Yacht Services, (PAYS) has reigned in the concierge service offering amenities that today's cruisers want and need. Agents happily assist boats to moorings, ease the task of clearance, provide safety patrols at night and twice a week, host a cruisers beach barbecue at their newly rebuilt pavilion. They aim to please and easily hit the mark.

Today's ambassadors are a stark contrast to the old days when a parade of boat boys would escort us in, all vying for the job of guide or hired hand. Services were limited; selling fruit, collecting garbage or leading your dinghy up the Indian River. On one visit in 1979, we were adopted by an urchin who took us to a coconut plantation. He scaled a tree for nuts then used our Buck Knife for the job of a machete. When the steel snapped, he froze in disbelief so we gave him the blade, paid his fee and off he happily went with his first 'knife.'

Since Maria's visit, we'd wondered about Portsmouth friends so the next morning we set off, hoping to find them. On the way to Customs and Immigrations, we spotted Leonardo, a post-man, bus-driver, jack-of-all tradesman who always welcomes us in. His roadside house took licks yet he considered himself lucky. He pointed up the road to a rock wall near the church. "De beeg trees wuz stopped right dere," he explained. "Dat wall save me house." Free-falling hardwoods choked rivers, sending water through the entire town. "Some houses, dey just float away."

Dominicans have never had much; simplicity reigns and change is slow. As we walked through the town, rebuilt structures rose next to wrecks caused by the storm or the wrath of time and poverty. A newly paved road stretched to the port and everywhere, cement mixers, block, piles of plywood, stood ready for the future.

After a friendly clearance, we stopped at the Indian River. The bar was busy; tour boats gearing up for a big day. We encountered Franklyn, a pal of 40 years, and listened raptly as he replayed vignettes of Maria's attack. Nearby houses, one by one, blew away so he hauled neighbors into his. Through the night he bailed the stream that kept filling his bathroom. Corrugated tin flew like paper in the wind. Animals disappeared; trees tangled with power-lines; cars rolled into the sea. His description of the morning after was apocalyptic. His house withstood the violence but everything inside was destroyed by water. "We wuz lucky," he said. "Blessed."

His son-in-law Daniel, a parks officer, pulled out his phone, filled with photos from the morning after. One showed hundreds of tiny birds. "We had to feed dem for weeks," he said. "Dey had nowhere to go- de trees wuz all ghan." On the morning after the storm, he and others walked every neighborhood accounting for family and helping where needed. "Everyone gave what dey had; bread, a dry place ta sleep." For two weeks, he carried a $10 EC bill in his pocket because it couldn't be spent. "Evrybody take care of each udder."

There was no power for most of the school year. Learning was on standby as schools served as shelters. Daniel's wife, Phyllis, a first grade teacher, proudly announced that Dominica's secondary students scored the highest year-end test scores in the islands. I thought pride was involved but she laughed, "De kids had to read and read. No power, no tv, no phones."

To our eye, Portsmouth was the same as we've always found it - impoverished and down to earth; lush and boun-

ECH<sub>2</sub>OTec.

No matter how you feel about a watermaker's performance in categories like output, standard features, power options, and energy efficiency, you likely agree that reliability is paramount. ECHOTecs are watermakers for cruisers and people who live off the beaten path. We understand their needs and we build lean, mean desalination machines, which means there is no room for bells and whistles.

ST. AUGUSTINE DISTILLERY POT DISTILLED RUM

BY CLINT AND TERRY BORAM

While looking for a catamaran listed for sale in St. Augustine, we passed by St. Augustine Distillery on Riberia Street. Knowing they recently released a golden rum, we made an immediate U-turn to check them out. Our tour guide, Tim, took us inside the restored ice plant, telling stories about days past and present followed by a tasting session that made us wish we had taken the Old Town Trolley.

Our tour began in a cool, windowless room filled with church pews and historical pictures of the once great ice plant built in the early 1900s. The plant supplied ice to residents, farmers and the booming fleet of shrimp boats. As the shrimp fleet diminished and refrigerators replaced ice boxes, this last remaining ice plant in the country closed in the 1950s. The building sat in disrepair, often being used as a haunted house, until four local business men and women bought it in 2012, pouring time and money into completely restoring the plant to be a premier distillery, bar and restaurant. The distillery opened in 2014 producing vodka, gin, bourbon, and rum.

Launched in January 2016, St. Augustine Distillery Pot Distilled Rum is made from local sugar cane syrup and molasses. The fermented liquid is distilled in a beautiful copper pot still they affectionately call Bessie. The rum is then aged for four months in bourbon barrels before being bottled. This short aging processes give the rum its golden color.

TASTINGS

Daiquiri — The tasting room had a Wild, Wild West L-shaped bar where Tim made cocktails to highlight all the spirits the distillery manufactures. For the rum he used a special Tropical Tiki mix sold by the distillery. The cocktail was very fruity with an earthy undertone. Was that the rum?

Though we sampled the rum neat at the store, it wasn't quite enough to really analyze this unique taste. We purchased the $45 bottle for further investigation.

Neat — There is a strong alcohol burn on the nose with Clint finding oak and spice notes while Terry leans more towards subtle butterscotch and banana. The alcohol burn dissipates quickly on the palate leaving us both searching for more. There is a grassiness like nothing we have ever tasted before, with subtle notes from the nose hitting the back of the palate. We both agreed the finish is warm and soothing but the earthiness to this rum doesn't scream rum. Clint keeps saying it tastes more like a tequila.

Mojito — Mint, sugar, lime, club soda and tequila? Yep, this rum has the earthiness of a tequila.

OVERALL

St. Augustine Distillery Pot Distilled Rum needs more time. For now we would encourage you to ride the Old Town Trolley to the distillery, take the tour and try all the products the company has to offer. Hint: the bourbon is spot on.

S/V TIMAIAO

We are a Canadian/Czech couple, sailing and living in the Caribbean. Our boat s/v Timaiao is a Lagoon 380, with 4 double cabins. Three of these 4 cabins are available to our guests. It will be our pleasure to sail with you around all the wonderful islands and to visit amazing places the Caribbean has to offer.

During the 15 days cruise (or longer/shorter), you will have the opportunity to enjoy the warm climate of the islands, swim in crystal clear sea, snorkel the reefs, dive the wrecks, sunbathe on beautiful beaches, hike the many nature trails all the way to the top of the hills for spectacular views and of course sail to remote destinations.

On your request we are able to arrange scuba diving excursions, paddle boarding lessons and many other activities. The voyage can be planned according to your age group, your interests and your different wishes.

CARIBBEAN RECIPES - SEA SPROUTS & CEVICHE

THE DISH BY CAP'N JAN ROBINSON

May is the time when many of you are bringing out the swimsuits and enjoying the warm weather, Enjoy!! Delicious nutritious recipes you will look forward to eating! It is important to feel good as well as looking good.

Accompanying the following recipes, I always like to put out a big platter of veggies, along with fresh fruits - grapes, strawberries, sliced melon etc., whatever is fresh and in season.

SEA SPROUTS

Prep time: 15 minutes. Serves: 6 - 8

1 Pkg. smoked salmon,	5 slices pumpernickle
thinly sliced	bread, dark
8 oz. goat cheese or	Whole black olives, pitted
cream cheese	Alfalfa sprouts

Thickly spread bread with goat cheese or cream cheese. Cover with a slice of salmon. Carefully cut bread into 1-inch squares. Top each square with alfalfa sprouts followed by a whole pitted black olive. Pop the whole bite into your mouth all at once – tastes as good as it looks!!

MEXICAN CEVICHE

Prep time: 10 minutes. Marinating time: 4 – 6 hours. Serves: 6 - 8

1 lb. fresh (or frozen/	1 small onion,
thawed) fish fillets	thinly sliced
1 cup fresh lemon or lime juice	¼ cup olive oil
2 medium tomatoes, peeled,	½ tsp. dried oregano,
seeded and chopped	crushed
3 pickled Serrano peppers,	¾ tsp. sea salt
rinsed, seeded, and cut	¼ tsp. ground
in strips	black pepper

Cut fish into ½ inch cubes. Place in a non-metal bowl and pour over lemon or lime juice. Cover and marinate in refrigerator for 4 hours or until fish is opaque; turn occasionally. Add tomatoes, onion, peppers, oregano, salt and pepper. Toss gently to combine. Chill until ready to serve.

SPINACH AND GARLIC FETTUCCINE

Prep time: 10 minutes. Cooking time: 20 minutes. Serves: 4 - 6

4 oz. fettuccine noodles	Fresh Baby Spinach
Garlic cloves, roasted or	Freshly ground black pepper
sautéed (as many as	Extra Virgin Olive Oil
you like)	½ grated Parmesan cheese

Cook noodles as directed on box. Last couple of minutes, add spinach and cook until wilted. Drain off all water, then let sit in a colander for a few minutes. Add roasted garlic cloves. Sprinkle with pepper and toss with a good extra virgin olive oil. Serve as a side dish or main dish by adding your favorite protein.

TUNISIAN SALAD

Prep time :20 minutes. Chilling time: 20 minutes. Serves: 4

1-½ lbs. cooked waxy	4 Tbsp. extra virgin
potatoes	olive oil
½ lb. cooked carrots	3 Tbsp. Fresh squeezed
2 cans artichoke hearts	lemon juice
1 cup cooked peas	1 Tbsp. chopped fresh
2 Tbsp. drained capers	parsley
12 small black olives	Sea salt and freshly
12 small green olives	ground black pepper
½ tsp. ground coriander

Dice the potatoes and carrots. Drain the artichokes and cut into quarters. Place all vegetables into a serving dish with the capers and olives. Whip oil and lemon juice together with parsley, coriander, and seasonings. Pour dressing over salad and toss lightly. Chill before serving.

10-MINUTE STRAWBERRIES WITH CHOCOLATE CREME

Prep time: 10 minutes. Serves: 4

¼ cup low-fat vanilla or soy yogurt
¼ cup organic cocoa powder
¼ cup maple syrup
1-½ pints (3 cups) strawberries, washed with hull left on

In a small bowl whisk together yogurt, cocoa, and maple syrup. Divide mixture into 4 small bowls. Place each bowl on a plate and arrange strawberries around each. Dip strawberries into the chocolate crème and enjoy!

Note: If your cocoa has lumps, sift it through a strainer before mixing with the other ingredients.
